Assess System

- Effectiveness and efficiency of the current system, including where more efficient organization and effective coordination of existing resources could create better outcomes

Determine Needs

Recommend Actions

Defining the Behavioral Health System

It is our vision that adults, children, youth and their families who live with mental illness and addiction receive the behavioral healthcare services they need when they need them.

For purposes of scoping and developing the three-year strategic action plan, the Idaho Behavioral Health System is defined as publicly funded programs and services as well as collaborations with private entities in the areas of Mental Health and Substance Use Disorder.

Our focus will be on programming and policy to drive best practices. Our goal is to ensure people in Idaho will have a better quality of life, reduced risk of involvement with the criminal justice system, healthier communities and safer places to live.

Idaho Behavioral Health System

Mental Health

Mental health includes our emotional, psychological, and social well-being. It affects how we think, feel, and act. It also helps determine how we handle stress, relate to others, and make choices. Mental health is important at every stage of life, from childhood and adolescence through adulthood.

Substance Use Disorder

A problematic pattern of using alcohol or another substance that results in impairment in daily life or noticeable distress.

Systems Level Planning & Change

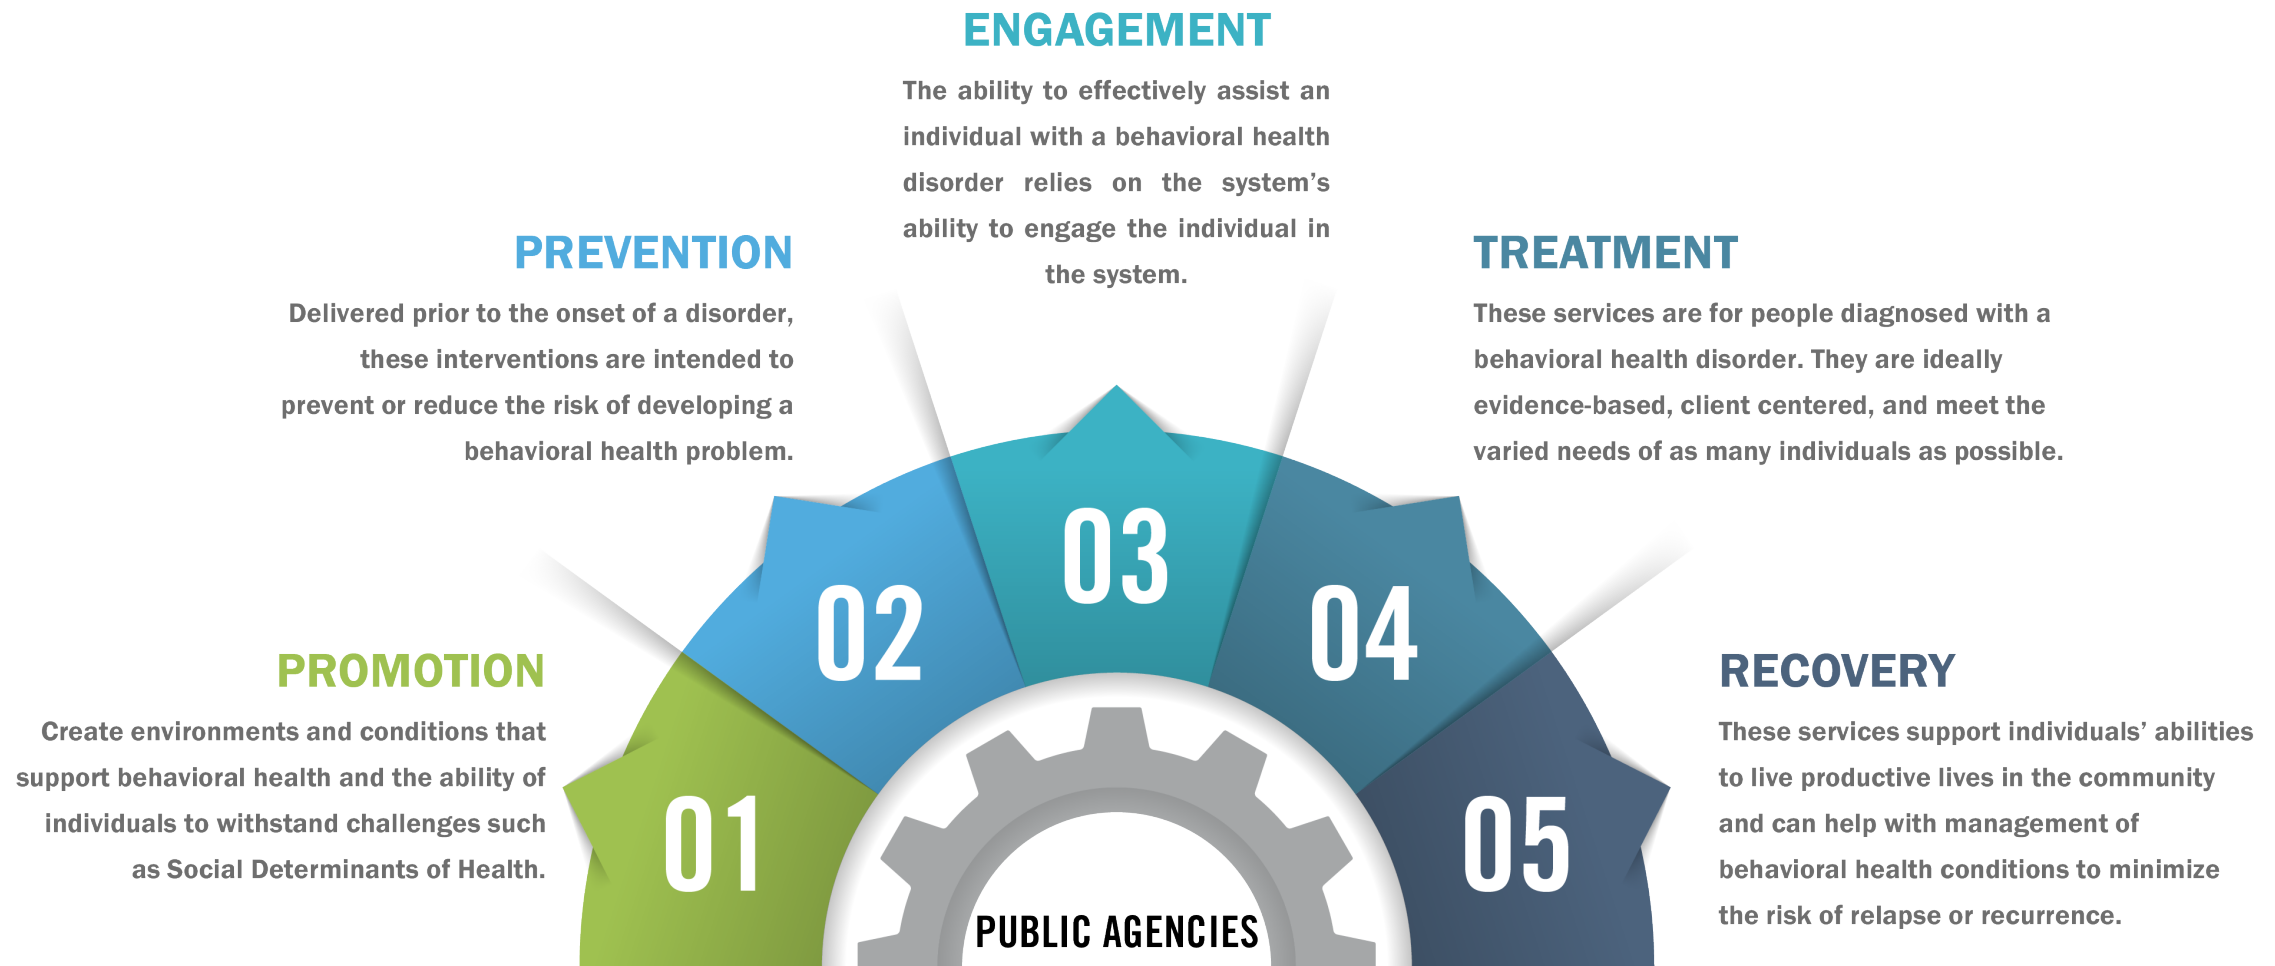

We will be looking at the behavioral health system through three frames:

Macro – Statewide behavioral health system
(DHW, ID Courts, etc.)

Meso – Organizational partners and users

Micro – Individual users of the system

Idaho's Behavioral Health Framework

ENGAGEMENT

The ability to effectively assist an individual with a behavioral health disorder relies on the system's ability to engage the individual in the system.

TREATMENT

These services are for people diagnosed with a behavioral health disorder. They are ideally evidence-based, client centered, and meet the varied needs of as many individuals as possible.

RECOVERY

These services support individuals' abilities to live productive lives in the community and can help with management of behavioral health conditions to minimize the risk of relapse or recurrence.

PREVENTION

Delivered prior to the onset of a disorder, these interventions are intended to prevent or reduce the risk of developing a behavioral health problem.

PROMOTION

Create environments and conditions that support behavioral health and the ability of individuals to withstand challenges such as Social Determinants of Health.
